With KENTUCKY Editors

Politics sooner or later embarrasses the best of Kentucky governors as well as the worst.—Cynthia Democrat.

The Enquirer wishes to correct the statement made in the account of the death of R. K. Stallard. It stated that he was survived by his wife. This was incorrect. We are glad to rectify this error.—Sandy Valley Enquirer.

When Pike county was severed from Floyd county about the year 1825, there was a certain citizen named Tandy R. Stratton who wanted to remain a citizen of his native county of Floyd, but whose farm of approximately 750 acres was included in the new county of Pike. Mr. Stratton was so anxious to live in Floyd county that his brother, James Stratton, who became a representative in the Kentucky legislature, had enacted in 1845 a special statute making his brother's farm a part of Floyd county.—Floyd County Times.

To live long man must live actively. A man is as old as he makes himself. Those who refuse to grow old never lose the child heart of Menicus. Those who do not keep their minds and bodies at work cannot hope to attain a ripe old age. Without work there can be no ambition, without ambition life grows heavy on one's hands, without the desire to live long the spark of life cannot linger long.—Richmond Register.

They say there's a new spirit abroad in the land. From what we read we judge it must be so. We don't think much of some of its manifestations. Here's something we read the other day. It came from Chicago and began like this: "Plan for a student army to march on Washington February 20-22 and camp there until demands for over $3,000,000,000 are met, were made today by the American Student Union." Yes, there is a new spirit abroad in the land. Much of it, however, represents destructive perversion and needs to be put into chains.—Richmond Pantagraph.

This week the Hickman county grand jury is being summoned to appear before the court on the first Monday in February. It is not this paper's desire to exaggerate the prevalence of crime and the most important duty of this group of men, but to say that all is well in Hickman county and that there is no lawlessness would be nothing short of a deliberate misstatement of facts. Crimes have been committed in Hickman county, more crimes than one.

There rests great and grave responsibility on the officers of the county and district and the jurors. Some crime in Hickman county seems to have reached the stage of habitualness.

The recurrent fine and lawful instructions of the judge is not satisfying. Citizens and officers must abide and act.

To know that the officers, jurors, and citizens would not discharge their duty, inasmuch as they are products of human ingenuity not wholly detached from fear, would be discouraging.—Hickman County Gazette.

SPORTSMEN ORGANIZE

Saturday, Jan. 16, the sportsmen here reorganized and consolidated the Fox Hunters and the Fish and Game club into one association.

Officers were elected as follows: president, Earl Price; vice president, Rex Byrd; secretary and treasurer, Geo. S. Owsley. A vote of thanks was given for the good work done by Geo. S. Owsley; also a vote of thanks to the local newspaper.

The membership committee consists of Robert Elam, Henry McKenzie, John Helton, Judge C. P. Henry, Geo. W. Brewer, R. J. Poynter, Lockwood Elam, M. H. Ferguson, and Sam Spencer.

The club is pledged to pay $5 and our district warden will add $5, making a $10 reward to anyone giving information leading to a conviction for the violation of any of our game and fish laws. Our department at Frankfort has a fund already set aside to pay $50 to anyone reporting a case of dynamiting.

Origin of Whist

The origin of whist is very obscure and no date is recorded on which it was introduced into England. However, it was known to be played in England as early as 1529.

CHANDLER DRAWS FIRE

Because he approved the sheriff-jailer consolidation repeal measure, the Courier-Journal has been eloquent in its condemnation of Governor Chandler.

Kentucky is the only state in the union which has a jailer as a distinct and separate office. In nearly all the states the sheriff acts as jailer.

Kentucky also is one of the few states where the salaries of the county officials depend largely or entirely on fees which the law prescribes and which are collected by these officials.

Governor Chandler gave as a principal reason for approving the separate jailer official that if the sheriff were charged with the duties of jailer the temptation to arrest people on slight charges to keep his jail filled and his purse fat might be too great for many sheriffs.

The governor calls for a change in the method of paying county officials and intimates that when this has been done it will be time enough to consider abolishing the office of jailer.

BOB JONES' COMMENTS

Mr. Drummond said in substance, "A Christian is always a gentleman." Mr. Drummond was right. The most refining influence that can come into the human heart is the grace of God. To be genuinely courteous a man must be unselfish. Christianity produces unselfishness. Selfish men are unkind men. Christianity produces warmth. A warm heart usually does naturally the generous, hospitable, and courteous thing. The writer knows a number of very outstanding, technical, professing Christians who are exceedingly pious in their language and theological terms, but who are cold and critical in their attitude toward people. They are not approachable. There is something wrong with such people. Christ was approachable. Anybody could get to Him. Little babies clung to His garments. Sinners of the underworld recognized Him as their friend and bathed His feet with their tears. We cannot be like Christ by the power of our own resolution or by an effort of our will, but we cannot fellowship with Christ without to some extent at least becoming like Him. His heart was warm and tender. Beware of Christians who know none of His tenderness.

Jesus taught that some day people will come to Him and say in substance, "Don't you know us? We cast out devils in your name. We did many wonderful works in your name." And He will say, "I never knew you." It is possible to be deceived about our salvation. We will have many surprises in heaven. It is the opinion of the writer that we are going to miss some of these cold, technical, dead, cynical, professing Christians who now hold high seats in the sanctuary. This is no reflection upon professing Christians. Many of them are sincere, warm, and consecrated. Men are not saved by what they do, but salvation in the human heart always produces certain definite results. Paul, before he met Jesus on the Damascus road, wanted to kill everybody who was a Christian. After he was converted he said in substance, "I wish all of you people were just as I am except I wouldn't put these chains on you." Before he was converted he hunted Christians. After he was converted, he wept over sinners. It does make a difference when men meet Jesus Christ. If there isn't a difference between what a man was before he professed Christianity and what he is after he professes Christianity, then the man hasn't any Christianity.

SCHOOL MONEY

In this paper you will find a complete record of the money received and expended by the Morgan county board of education for the school year 1935-1936.

We talk about the new school building here being a government project, and so it is, but notice the considerable amount of local money used on the project. Of course no one regrets the money thus spent, but it reminds us that the community has contributed no small bit toward this fine structure.

Cox Is Convicted

In the circuit court of Floyd county on Tuesday, W. S. Cox was found guilty in the slaying of Asa Motley, a Morgan county man, at Hazel Green some months ago, and was sentenced to the penitentiary for a period of 21 years. Another killing charge is pending against Cox.

AUTO KILLING

When the final figures are tabulated and released, it will probably be found that 1936 was the worst year in our history so far as automobile accidents were concerned.

More than 35,000 men, women, and children were killed. Hundreds of thousands were injured. Property damage ran into the billions.

At least 90 percent of this ghastly destruction can be ascribed to but one thing, the human element.

It is a telling commentary on our driving habits that the worst accidents commonly occur on good roads under favorable conditions of light and weather, and involve cars in excellent condition. The reason for this is simple enough. Drivers exaggerate the "safety factors" of roads and weather and cars. They take chances. They succumb to the lure of speed beyond any reasonable need. They pass other cars on hills and curves, weave in and out of traffic and zoom around corners at a horrible cost in life, health, and property.

Efforts to educate these drivers, to appeal to their senses of reason and fairness and courtesy, have failed practically 100 percent. That being true, the next step is a massed public opinion that will strengthen traffic laws and traffic patrols, and strictly punish those guilty of driving errors that cause accidents. If the reckless driver refuses to mend his ways, he must be forced to. And if, after a period of time, he has shown that fines and other punishments won't do the work, he must be deprived of the right to operate a car on public streets and highways.

It is estimated that 10 percent of drivers are reckless, while 90 percent are reasonably capable and cautious. Will that dangerous 10 percent continue to be allowed to imperil all the rest of us and to make slaughter houses of our public roads?

EZEL

Jan. 18.—Stanley Ferguson, son of J. W. Ferguson of this place, was recently married to Miss Ruth Fraley of Middletown, Ohio. Miss Fraley is a resident of Middletown and a prominent church worker there, a young lady of excellent character, and is very popular among the young folks there. Mr. Ferguson is an excellent young man, and is employed by the American Rolling Mill at Middletown. The young couple visited the groom's parents here the day they were married, Dec. 31, and stayed four days, returning to Middletown, where they will make their future home. We wish them much joy and happiness in the future, as Mr. Ferguson was much liked by all the citizens here where he was raised.

Miss Eunice Olson spent the week end at Hazel Green among friends, returning Sunday afternoon.

Marion Hamilton has sold his home to Finley Ward. We don't know where Mr. Hamilton will locate.

Mrs. R. L. Motley Sr., who has been sick for some time, is getting better. Mrs. Roll Nickell, who has been in a hospital at Mt. Sterling for treatment, will return Tuesday.

John Rose has rented the upper half of his farm to Lawrence Taulbee. Lige Lawson will move to the place vacated by Curt Neff's. Mr. Neff's are locating in Middletown, Ohio.

Pennsylvania Bossy and Her Triplets

THE RATS START A FIRE

RATS are born thieves. They not only steal food, but they carry off many other things, things for which they really have no use at all. Now it happened that one of the young rats in the farmhouse found some matches and took them to his nest under the floor of the shed. There, having nothing else to do, he nibbled at them to see what the queer stuff on the ends of them might be. His sharp teeth caused one of them to light, and of course that instantly lighted all the rest of them. With a squeak of fright the rat ran away, for like all the little people of the Green Forest and the Green Meadows a rat fears the Red Terror, which we call fire, more than anything else.

Now that rat's nest was made chiefly of chewed up paper and old rags. Nothing could have been better for the Red Terror. It blazed instantly. The floor just above was of very, very dry wood, for the boards of that floor had been there many years. In no time at all that shed was afire.

All the rats under the floor fled in terror into the house. Smoke began to pour out of the open door of the shed. The farmer at work in the barnyard saw it and ran as fast as he could to try to put the fire out. For a while the farmer and his wife had a hard fight with the Red Terror. They pumped water as fast as ever they could and carried it in pails to throw on the fire. At first it looked as if the Red Terror would be too much for them and their house would be burned up, but after a while the water was too much for the Red Terror and drowned it out.

"Whew!" exclaimed the farmer as he and his wife sat down to rest for a moment. "That was a narrow escape. How under the sun could that fire have started?" "I haven't the least idea," replied his wife. "I was upstairs at the time. There wasn't a thing in that shed that could have started it. Do you suppose anybody could have set it?"

The farmer shook his head. "No," said he, "that fire started under the floor." Then a sudden thought came to him. "I know how it started!" he cried angrily. "It was those pesky rats! It was those pesky rats as sure as I live. They must have found some matches somewhere and taken them to a nest under the floor. Then while they were nibbling at them they set one going. We've got to get rid of those rats or we won't have a house left over our heads. I don't know how we're going to do it, but we've got to get rid of those rats!"

MOTHER'S COOK BOOK

FEEDING THE FAMILY

THIS seems to be the principal work of at least twenty million housewives, but feeding the family on the proper food is not a light job to be undertaken with no thought.

Food is not necessarily nutritious in proportion to its cost. The high-priced foods appeal to the eye and imagination, so they seem most desirable. Going marketing is a wonderful education as well as a great developer of will power, or resistance to temptation, for it takes real self-denial to pass by the crisp and green cucumber or the box of strawberries, when the price is beyond the purse.

The mother of a family should, of all people, understand food values, for she is in a position to build up or tear down bodies and ruin digestions. "Bad habits ruin life as do weak bones the body."

The protein foods such as meat, eggs, fish, cheese and milk are the most expensive and complex. Carbohydrates are the starches and sugars; potatoes, rice, macaroni are our principal source of starch and the sugars we get from various sources—honey—from fruits and such vegetables as beets.

An excess of meat is very bad for it clogs the system and causes self-poisoning.

Brain workers and the young as well as aged need easily digested foods. Active muscle workers need coarse foods, which are better for their needs; however, all need roughage to give bulk and increase the intestinal activity.

The growing child needs milk, butter, eggs, green vegetables and fruits to supply all the food principles and the vitamins which promote growth.

The diet should be varied as well

ONE OF THOSE DAYS

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

ONE of those days we just recall. The heavy labor of it all. Behold our task with downcast eyes. We once uplifted to the prize. One of those days we look too near. The task to either see or hear. The beauty of it—darkly gaze. And say, "It's just one of those days."

One of those days the things unkind. Come quickest to the weary mind. Forgotten all the joy we met. Remembered all we should forget. One of those days we see the past. As something good that could not last.

The future something that delays. Too long, and say, "One of those days."

One of those days. We know not why. A cloud will visit any sky. But this we know, that not a one has ever overcome the sun.

One of these days we yet shall learn. If nights descend that dawn return. And with that thought our souls so raise. We never know "one of those days."

THE LANGUAGE OF YOUR HAND

By Leicester K. Davis

© Public Ledger, Inc.

AS YOU progress in your understanding of the revelations of the hand, you will become more and more impressed with how well the builder of our destinies has given us each a preponderance of those qualities required to offset what otherwise might be a disastrous temperamental deficiency.

Thumb as Index of Logic vs. Will

The first two joints of the thumb, as you have learned, denote the balancing qualities of will and logic. One often is found to offset completely an almost hopeless deficiency in the other. For example, you may find a short, flexible nail joint denoting impulsiveness, extravagance and other undesirable reactions to environment quite neutralized by the greater-than-average length of the middle joint.

Or the reverse may be shown, in which case a naturally self-deprecating tendency to let things go because of mental laziness is stung to action and kept in working order by a stubborn will which refuses to submit to a temperamental defect.

son, but the true reasons are always in the subconscious mind—in the instincts—says Dr. Donald Laird in his valuable book "What Makes People Buy." Clothing and personal adornments are sold on the instinct to be admired and to attract attention; insurance on the instinctive fear of death; travel tours on the instinctive craving for romance; and automobiles on the instinct to show power and exhibit it through possessions. Everything we buy has an instinctive basis for its appeal, and most of us never realize this. An intelligent salesman studies these instincts and makes use of them.

Whistling Wildcat Is His House Pet

Negrito, reported to be the meanest house pet, rests partly on the chair and partly on the shoulder of his master, Harlan Major, of Amityville, N. Y., to pose for this photograph. Mr. Major purchased the animal, which is a member of the jaguar family in Ecuador. It whistles instead of meowing and, although quite ferocious, has a strong affection for its master.

Automatic Parachutes

The parachutes which have been made use of up to the present time require the passenger to throw it into operation by pulling a cord, which must not be done until entirely clear of the plane. This requires nerve, which is only acquired by practice. The occasional passenger might not be competent to carry out this program and the life-saving effort would be a failure. A new design expands into action automatically. This is done by a spring roller feature and the passenger has nothing to do but jump.

Restraint on Liberty

It is restraint which characterizes the higher creature and betters the lower creature; and from the ministering of the archangel to the labor of the insect, from the poisoning of a grain of dust—the power and glory of all creatures and all matter consist in their obedience, not in their freedom. The sun has no liberty, a dead leaf has much. The dust of which you are formed has no liberty. Its liberty will come—with its corruption.—Ruskin.

Deadlock Continues in General Motors Strike

GOV. FRANK MURPHY of Michigan, abandoned, at least for the present, his efforts to end the deadlock between the General Motors corporation and the striking members of the United Automobile Workers, but James P. Dewey, conciliator for the Department of Labor, in a report from Detroit, said that a peace conference with William S. Knudsen, executive vice president of General Motors, thus stated the corporation's position.

"General Motors corporation representatives immediately upon evacuation of its plants by employees engaged in sit down strikes will meet with representatives of the union, but to accept the union's conditions would have placed General Motors in the position of condoning their illegal actions. We cannot condone illegal occupation of our plants."

The union conditions, as set forth by President Homer Martin, were: "We are willing to agree to withdrawal if negotiations are opened immediately with an agreement that all plants remain closed, without movement of equipment or resumption of activities until a national settlement is effected, and with a further agreement that all activities such as circulation of petitions, organizing of vigilante activities, threatening or coercing of employees, be immediately stopped."

About a thousand men, engaged in the sit down strikes, were thus holding up negotiations for settlement of the controversy which already had thrown out of work nearly 100,000 employees of the corporation.

General Motors officials received telegrams from a number of American Federation of Labor units urging no recognition of the United Automobile Workers as sole bargaining agency for the motor car factory workers. They were assured the corporation would not back down on this point.

Making the situation more difficult, the strikers in Flint engaged in a wild, riotous battle with the guards and city police that lasted for hours and resulted in the injury of dozens of men. The local officers restrained themselves admirably though armed with machine guns, and the state police were hurried to the scene to aid them. Governor Murphy and other state officials also went to Flint.

Kidnaped Boy Found Slain

Near Everett, Wash. TEN-year-old Charles Mattson, kidnaped from his home in Tacoma, Wash., Dec. 17 and held for ransom, was found beaten to death in snow covered woods near Everett. The body was nude and cruelly battered. State and city police and department of justice agents, who had been held back to give the lad's father a chance to pay the ransom and save his son, immediately began an intensive manhunt, but their clues were few and poor.

France Ready to Occupy Spanish Morocco

FRANCE, according to reliable reports, is all set to occupy Spanish Morocco, and expects the full co-operation of Great Britain. The French had sent to General Franco, head of the Spanish Fascists, one protest against the alleged admission to Morocco of German troops, and then sent another before taking drastic action. If they do move, it will be nominally in behalf of the sultan of Morocco and because of violation of the Franco-Spanish treaty of 1912.

France has 100,000 men in her Moroccan army and could easily and speedily occupy most of the Spanish zone, which the Fascists control. Support by the British presumably would come from the British fleet in the Strait of Gibraltar and possibly from troops to replace French forces taken from the German border.

France sent a conciliatory reply to Paris. At a reception to diplomats Chancellor Hitler talked with the French ambassador to Berlin and assured him that Germany had no intention of attempting to seize Spanish Morocco.

Berlin has indignantly denied the presence of German troops in Spanish Morocco, asserting they are mining men and properly are armed for self protection. High Commissioner Beigebitter of Spanish Morocco also avers there are no foreign troops in his territory. To a correspondent he said: "You can declare no war on Germany. It is not even possible for they will soon invent a new machine gun—has anyone ever heard of that?"

At G. I. there was a report that German volunteers were expected to land at Cadiz and Jersey in a first assault on Madrid. The story was fantastic.

Great Britain, angered by the air bombing of her embassy in Madrid, had protested. Some of her most powerful warships were added to the fleet at Gibraltar. The British government forbade citizens to enlist in Spain, and continued its efforts to persuade other nations to stop the sending of volunteers to that country. France agreed to introduce legislation to that effect, but Germany and Italy were still clinging to their conditions and allegedly continuing to give aid to the Franco forces.

Supreme Court Rebuked by the President

THIRTY-FOUR, but unmistakable was President Roosevelt's rebuke to the Supreme court in his annual message on the state of the Union. Standing triumphantly before the lopsidedly Democratic senate and house in joint session, the chief executive said:

"The United States of America, within itself, must continue the task of making democracy succeed."

"In that task the legislative branch of our government will, I am confident, continue to meet the demands of democracy whether they relate to the curbing of abuses, the extension of help to those who need help, or the better balancing of our interdependent economies."

"So, too, the executive branch of the government must move forward in this task and, at the same time, provide better management for administrative action of all kinds."

"The judicial branch also is asked by the people to do its part in making democracy successful. We do not ask the courts to call non-existent powers into being, but we have a right to expect that conceded powers or those legitimately implied shall be made effective instruments for the common good."

"The process of our democracy must not be imperiled by the denial of essential powers of free government."

Sketching the program for his second term, the President said legislation he desired at this time included extension of the RFC, of his power to devalue the dollar and of other New Deal authorizations about to expire. "The deficiency appropriations, and extension of the neutrality law to apply to the Spanish civil war. Conceding that NRA had 'tried to do too much,' he continued: 'The statute of NRA has been outlawed. The problems have not. They are still with us.'"

Congress Receives Budget Message of President

STATING that he expects to balance the national budget and begin reducing the national debt in 1939, President Roosevelt submitted to congress a budget for the 1939 fiscal year. He said, balanced conditionally except for statutory debt retirement—meaning that if his conditions are met the gross deficit for the fiscal year beginning July 1 would not be more than $401,515,000, compared with $2,652,652,774 in the current fiscal year and $4,763,841,642 in the 1936 fiscal year, which ended last June 30.

But the President warned the nation that conditional budget balance in the next fiscal year and complete balance in the following year depended on industry's co-operation in hiring more persons from relief rolls. All estimates were dependent upon continued economic improvement.

The President estimated that federal revenue in the fiscal year beginning July 1 would be more than $1,475,466,378 because of better business and higher taxes. He did not propose new taxes but opposed the reduction of any taxes now in effect.

The message allotted 451 millions to a general public works program, excluding the Florida canal and the Passamaquoddy tide harnessing project; 432 millions for agricultural relief and soil conservation; 835 millions for social security, and 316 millions for recovery and relief.

The message revealed that Mr. Roosevelt planned to curtail relief expenditures sharply from the 1936-37 levels. But he found available funds insufficient for the rest of the current fiscal year and asked congress to appropriate $790,000,000 immediately, of which $650,000,000 is to be expended for recovery and relief between February 1 and June 30 when the 1937 fiscal year ends.

What Irvin S. Cobb Thinks about

International Fourflushing.

SANTA MONICA, CALIF.—

When the German troops marched into the Rhineland, France was going to fight about it, but didn't.

When the Italians moved against Ethiopia, Britain was going to invoke force, but didn't.

When Russia poked her snout into the Spanish mess, they were going to be interventionist but all that happened was that they were armed action by other powers, but wasn't.

When Japan began to nibble again at China, there was going to be intervention but all that happened was that the League of Nations chirped despairingly and then put its head back under its wing.

Somehow, I'm thinking of the two fellows who started fighting and, when bystanders rushed in to separate them, the one who was fighting the worst of it yelled:

"Five or six of you hang on to that big brute. Anybody can hold me!"

Curing Temperament.

A JUDGE back east rules that this so-called artistic temperament is not sufficient excuse for a callous genius to beat up his bride.

I tried the stuff once—just once—but the presiding judge in my case was a lady. For years I'd been trudging as steadily as a milkman's horse, whereas being a practitioner of a creative profession, I said to myself I really ought to stage some temperamental commotion to make the family appreciate me. So I rehearsed my act and went downstairs one morning and put it on. So my wife looked at me across the breakfast table, and said: "I know what the trouble with you is. You're bilious. You'll take some calomel."

Well, what chance you going to do when a beautifully staged emotional outburst is diagnosed, not as the promptings of a tortured soul, but as liver complaint?

You guessed it. I took the calomel, and, I pledge you my word, haven't had an attack since.

The Law's Delays.

ONCE a Massachusetts Supreme court reversed a felony conviction because the prosecution, in filing the record, stated that the crime was committed "on the fifteenth day of June, 1855" but failed to state whether the year was 1855 A. D. or 1855 B. C.

And ever since then on quibbles almost equally foolish—such as a misplaced comma, or an upside-down period—other high courts have been defeating the ends of justice and setting at naught the decisions of honest juries.

Science has gone ahead, medicine has taken enormous steps forward, but law still rides in a stage coach and hunts with a flintlock musket. Has it ever occurred to anyone that one reason for the law's delays is a lack of the thing called common sense?

Dinosaur Footprints.

BACK in 1858, a college professor discovered on a sandstone ledge in Massachusetts a whole lot of imbedded tracks for the dinosaur—famously known to geologists as dinah, just as among its scientific friends the great winged lizard is frequently referred to as big liz.

At the time, the discovery created no excitement—merely a slight shock of surprise to the old farmers upon learning there was something historic in Massachusetts antedating the Mayflower. For the naturalists figured those tracks had been left more than 150,000,000 years ago. And they were suffered to remain nearly eighty years more.

But here recently it develops that parties unknown have been chiseling Dinah's footprints out and toting them off. This would seem to indicate either that America is getting dinosaur-conscious or that dinosaurleggers are operating, or both.

So if a slinky gentleman should come to the side door, offering a prime specimen for the parlor when not, don't trade with him, read the paper, call the police. Next time he may come back with a derrick off of Plymouth Rock or the cornerstone of Harvard college or the name plate from Cotton Mather's coffin.

Meaning of "H. M. S." on Ship "H. M. S." preceding the name of a vessel stands for His (or Her) Majesty's ship. The letters are used in connection only with vessels in the British service. Popularly "H. M. S." is supposed to be the abbreviation of His Majesty's steamer, but the letters were used in the names of British ships long before the commercial development of the steamboat. "H. M. S." is also the abbreviation of His Majesty's Service.

Want Roosevelt to Stop Fight

Europe Believes He Can Prevent World War; No Meddling With Constitution

By EARL GODWIN.

WASHINGTON.—Europe wants President Roosevelt to step in and stop that row over there!

European dictators, arming themselves to the teeth on money they would better use to pay off their debt to us in the last war have clustered themselves to the point where they have just got to fight—and how they hate it!

Our State Department knows this from inside sources; and I understand our diplomats have been telling the President that Europe looks to him to prevent a World war which will drag this country into it.

The stories we hear show that Europe is apparently scared of itself. Militaristic dictators of these increasingly warlike countries appear to be something like drunken cowboys who have forced themselves into a fight—and then look around for some friend to hold them back.

Most of the European troubles can be traced back to the division of spoils at the Versailles treaty after the World war; Germany was stripped of its colonies, and there were other rearrangements of the map. Germany would like its colonies back and American information is that if a World war can be started by returning Germany its colonies—this could be accomplished if someone like Roosevelt would suggest it. What is needed is someone who can make these peaceful suggestions without interfering with the prestige of some of the European leaders.

Some time ago it was hinted broadly that the President planned to step in and suggest a friendly talk with Stalin of Russia, Hitler of Germany, Mussolini of Italy all present. At that time, early in the summer, the suggestion was met with varying reactions.

Mr. Roosevelt never completely denied the implications in the published news stories at the time I mentioned, for it involved tremendous and dangerous matters—but the situation has reached a point where Europe may make the suggestion. In which case everyone here believes the President would acquiesce and do what he could to bring peace to the Old World just as he has been working to insure peace in the western world.

CONSTITUTION IS O. K.

All thoughts of amending the Constitution to conform to New Deal administration ranks since the President himself has said there is nothing the matter with the Constitution—it's the courts that need attention! The President passes on what he has learned this past year—that there is general feeling that "there is little fault to be found with the Constitution."

Several Presidents have criticized the courts; among them was William Howard Taft, himself; who was later Chief Justice of the United States; but memory fails to recall one who, prior to Roosevelt, told congress that the election was a mandate for a legislative program—the reactionary members of the Supreme court, notwithstanding. Those crude words will not be found in the text of the President's first communication to the 75th congress—but they are to be found by those who know how to read between the lines.

The President actually never had any right to make such a statement before he went before congress, because the issue had not been decided by the voters; before election he had his own ideas on the subject, and his ideas became a part of the campaign issue—after election he appeared to have the people's backing to ask all three branches of government—executive, legislative and judicial to keep step in a liberal program.

The President took his text from the Constitution itself; the preamble which is the fountain source of all "general welfare" legislation and Article 1 which gives to the congress "all" legislative power. When he inferentially questioned the propriety of the Supreme court knocking out the laws made by a congress of peoples' representatives he was not introducing a new idea, for this has been a debated subject for many years. It is a red hot question whenever a law is rendered unconstitutional by a five to four vote, because that seems too close a margin, giving one man on the court too much powerful power. The President has had a long time in which to gauge the sentiment of the country since he told his newspaper friends that the court's narrow attitude toward NRA put us back to the horse and buggy days. The court, too, has had several experiences with other New Deal legislation and in the famous AAA case the minority members of the court criticized the majority in a bitter opinion written by Justice Stone. In that, the minority, Justices Brandeis, Stone and Cardozo, reminded the rest of the court that there were other branches of the government capable of carrying on. At the time the President made his "horse and buggy" remark, I received the impression that he believed that sooner or later the people of the United States would demand a changed Constitution to guarantee the utilization of the full federal powers in social, economic and agricultural problems. That time may arrive; but apparently the President believes the first step should be a liberal view of the Constitution as it stands.

In other days Theodore Roosevelt was looked upon as a radical when he advocated popular recall of judicial decisions, and that first Roosevelt reminded the people that as radical as he might be he was not even abreast of Abraham Lincoln. The great war President, Theodore Roosevelt recalled, said in his inaugural message the first time that "the people will have ceased to be the rulers" if vital questions affecting all the people rested irrevocably on the Supreme court. In contrast, Franklin Roosevelt's suggestion that the courts have "an enlightened view" is straight and bold, but comparatively conservative.

STATES' RIGHTS.

There has grown up the idea that the founding fathers were completely states' rights men in the sense that they wanted to reduce the federal power to a mere trickle in contrast to the sweeping powers of the infant states. This has developed to the size of an overgrown political and legal fiction in the last two decades by the constant hammering of corporation lawyers who have fought against federal regulation of their clients' affairs. Many court opinions have strengthened this view, but despite all this, court opinions are not the Constitution. No interpretation can make it less powerful than it was held to be by the men who made it; and the debates of the constitutional convention have impressed those who think as Mr. Roosevelt thinks, that the founding fathers were strong for the states—but much stronger for the federal government.

In those debates students of the Constitution are again finding that the powers of congress presented no problem to the founders. They believed that economic justice and the rights of citizenship; they had no idea of a court that would deny these things after congress had found a way to spread them about.

ASKS FIREARMS LAW.

Homer Cummings, attorney general, believes that it will aid law enforcement if the government knows who owns every pistol and rifle in the country, and again asks congress for a law requiring the registration of every such weapon. Cummings puts up a good case for his idea; he has to deal with the kidnapers and other gangsters—but the previous congress was stopped from enacting a federal firearms law by protests from gun makers as well as hunters.

There is a law for the registration of machine guns; and the manufacturers thereof have an understanding that these weapons are for sale only to the government or to national guard organizations. Gangsters steal them from armories. But pistols and rifles can be freely sold practically without stint—except in such cases as that of New York state which has its Sullivan law prohibiting the ownership of a pistol by a citizen. Opponents of the law say it takes away from the decent citizens the right to arm themselves against the crooks who always manage to have a full arsenal.

JEALOUSY CROPS OUT.

Two sets of government sleuths are fighting for the honor of having put Al Karpis, notorious kidnaper and bandit, behind the bars of a federal penitentiary. The jealousy comes to light in two separate annual reports of the Post Office and the Attorney General's office, and it is an indication of the reason why the President wants to reorganize the government and have fewer overlapping agencies and bureaus.

Karpis kidnaped E. G. Bremer and W. A. Hamm and immediately the famous G-Men of the Department of Justice were on the trail. Karpis disappeared and did not show a trace until one day the Postal Inspectors, sleuthing on the trail of a train robber, turned up evidence that Karpis had done the job, and that he was accompanied by a gangster named Campbell also a kidnaper. Here, then, were the two crooks being chased for two different crimes by two different sets of government detectives.

Postal inspectors have been chasing bandits for years without the publicity which now attends the famous G-Men; and they have a stand-offish feeling about these kidnapper chasers. There was hard feeling in this instance—and some sharp words; but instead of co-operating, the two sets of sleuths pursued their quarry along different lines; and at one time both sets of detectives nearly smashed up the whole game; they almost let Karpis et al get away.

Finally the G-Men got both crooks—and they are both serving life sentences. Now the Post Office Department officially claims that its men picked up the scent which led to the eventual incarceration—while the Department of Justice in its annual report claims credit for the imprisonment of the two men.

Household Questions

Fish is sometimes broken through overboiling. If this happens, remove all skin and bone and flake it. Mix it with a sauce, and sprinkle it with chopped parsley, chopped hard-boiled eggs, bread crumbs and cheese, and serve in fireproof glass dishes.

Never put soda and water into an enameled saucepan that has been burned. Although it will remove the burned particles of food it will make the pan more likely to burn again the next time it is used. Use salt instead of soda. Fill the pan with cold water, leave until the next day and then slowly bring to a boil.

Wash chiffons in a soap solution. No rubbing will be required, just rinsing up and down. Don't have the water too hot.

TWO MIRACLES OF MERCY

LESSON TEXT—John 5:29, 6:8-15

GOLDEN TEXT—The same wills that I do, bear witness of me, that the Father hath sent me. John 5:36

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Feeding Hungry People

JUNIOR TOPIC—A Boy Who Gave Away His Lunch

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Why Did Christ Work Miracles?

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Significance of Christ's Miracles

The world is looking for supermen, those who can work "miracles," and thus afford an easy solution for the problems of the home and of the nation. Men are ready to marvel at and follow in almost abject submission those who promise riches without labor, food without toil, short cuts to comfort and satisfaction. Often they are content if they only have something over which they may exclaim "Wonderful!" whether it be useful or not.

The miracles of God, through his servants and the Lord Jesus Christ, are not mere marvels or wonders. They are not for the advancement of the cause of any man or for personal glory. They are the mighty signs of an omnipotent God wrought for the good of men, for their spiritual enlightenment and as a testimony to the one true God.

The two miracles of our lesson present Jesus Christ as a Lord of mercy and grace—ready to meet the needs of men. Deep and real was his compassion as his heart yearned over needy humanity.

It is suggested that in the study and teaching of this lesson we vary our plan somewhat and present seven seed thoughts found in the two portions assigned. It is also urged that the context in both chapters be read with care.

I. We Are Impotent Folk (John 5:2).

The words well describe not only those who lay helpless about the pool of Bethesda but they fit us as well. Oh, yes, we are strong, capable, fearless, but only until we meet some great elemental problem. Then we see that we are indeed "a great multitude of impotent folk." The gently falling snow stopped the undefeated Napoleon. The silent fog can paralyze a nation. Death, sickness—who can stay their hand?

II. Despair Spells Defeat (v. 7). Long families with their weakness had bred in the man with the infirmity a sense of despair. Such an attitude invites defeat. It is unbefitting to a Christian. Let us not forget in the darkest hour to "keep looking up."

III. God Answers the Weakest Faith (v. 8).

Jesus evidently saw in the man's despairing reply a spark of faith. He who believes honors the name of God. We may need to cry "I believe, help thou mine unbelief," but if we believe God will gloriously meet even our faltering faith.

IV. God's Command Empowers (v. 8, 9).

Jesus told the man to "Rise—and walk"—the very thing he could not do for his thirty-eight years of life. But when the Son of God speaks to us he gives the power to respond to his command.

V. Works Follow Faith (v. 9). The man arose, took up his bed, and walked. Man's faith in God and God's response to faith lead to man's action on God's command. Too many are they in the church today who have never stood up and walked for God.

VI. Look to God, Not at Your Resources (John 5:9).

Humanlike, the disciples counted their money and found it was not enough to supply food for a multitude. And then there was a boy, but he had only five barley crackers and two little fish. It almost sounds like a church-board deciding to close the cross-roads church and let the Devil have the boys and girls, because it costs too much to keep up the work. God help us to trust and go on for him. "Little is much when God is in it."

VII. Followers for Bread Not Wanted (v. 15).

Those who follow Christ because of business advantage and social prestige know nothing of what it means to be a Christian. He is not a bread-making king; he is the bread of life.

Essence of Prayer

Prayer in its essence is not so much the expression of our desire for things at all as of our desire for God Himself.

Discourtesy

Discourtesy occasions not merely suffering, but sin; and Christian courtesy is a "means of grace" to all who have the happiness to receive it.—R. W. Dale.

The Day's Work

Let us make haste to live. For every day is a new life to a wise man.—Seneca.

Grieving for Wasted Time

He who knows most, grieves most for wasted time.—Dante.

The Game of Life

THOSE who consciously brood on their sorrows were committed by Dante to the deepest pit of hell. They are in love with shadows. When all comes to all, what we call the game of life is just what makes life worth living. Life's enemies are not cares and worries, deprivations and misfortunes. They are its greatest allies. Its enemies are the damp fogs of the spirit, where there are neither shadows nor light.

—Dr. Nansen.

With great wealth comes great want.

Good Breeding

Good breeding is the art of showing men, by external signs, the internal regard we have for them. It arises from good sense, improved by conversing with good company.—Cato.

DON'T RUB YOUR EYES

A simple eye wash, however, keeps the eyes moist and free from irritation. It is a reliable eye medicine and is used by thousands of people. It is a simple eye medicine and is used by thousands of people. It is a simple eye medicine and is used by thousands of people.

Sore Throat Pains DUE TO COLDS Eased Instantly

3. Repeat gargle and do not rinse mouth, allow gargle to remain on membranes of the throat for prolonged effect.

Just Gargle This Way with Bayer Aspirin

Here is the most amazing way to ease the pains of rawness of sore throat—by asking for it by its full name—not by the name "aspirin" alone.

Crush and dissolve three genuine BAYER ASPIRIN tablets in one-third glass of water. Then gargle with this mixture twice, holding your head well back.

This medicinal gargle will act almost like a local anesthetic on the sore, irritated membrane of your throat. Pain eases almost instantly; rawness is relieved.

Countless thousands now use this way to ease sore throat. Your doctor, we are sure, will approve it. And you will say it is marvelous.

Get the real BAYER ASPIRIN at your druggist's by asking for it by its full name—not by the name "aspirin" alone.

Calotabs Help Nature To Throw Off a Cold

Millions have found in Calotabs a most valuable aid in the treatment of colds. They take one or two tablets the first night and repeat the third or fourth night if needed.

How do Calotabs help Nature throw off a cold? First, Calotabs are one of the most thorough and dependable of all intestinal eliminants, thus cleansing the intestinal tract of the germ-laden mucus and toxines. Second, Calotabs are diuretic to the kidneys, promoting the elimination of cold poisons from the blood. Thus Calotabs serve the double purpose of a purgative and diuretic, both of which are needed in the treatment of colds.

Calotabs are quite economical; only twenty-five cents for the family package, ten cents for the trial package. (Adv.)

THE CAR THAT WILL BALANCE MANY A BUDGET IN 1937—

HERE'S something new—a car that is lavish with body room, luggage space, and style—yet is a MISER on gas and oil!

Its 60 h.p. V-8 engine has the same design, same quality of materials and precision manufacture which have made the 85 horsepower Ford V-8 engine famous the world around.

Furthermore, this "Thrifty 60" Ford V-8 has exactly the same roomy body as the more expensive Ford, on the same 112" chassis!

And when you drive it—notice how smoothly and quietly it accelerates! Not the equal of the brilliant "85" in performance and top speed, of course, but a real performer!

And when it comes to delivering more miles per gallon of gas and quart of oil, this "Thrifty 60" stands alone in Ford history.

See this car today. It sets an entirely new standard of economy in modern motor car operation.
